

Products & Services

Prescient Systems & Technologies is a leading innovator in the provision of comprehensive turnkey training solutions and data networking for both Civil and Defence needs. Our extensive experience in training management, software design and development, systems integration and modification, allow us to deliver cost effective training solutions for aviation, marine and ground systems to our customers.

Prescient offers a wide range of cost-effective simulation products and services, from desktop computer-based trainers (CBT) to sophisticated networked procedural, tactical and mission training systems for air, marine and land environments. With our extensive experience in simulation and training systems, Prescient also provides consultancy and implementation for training equipment and centres.

As a leading system supplier, we also provide our customers a comprehensive Integrated Logistics Support programme for guaranteed long term support of the systems.
